

SARAH HOVORKA

Meet the Author

Like many new adults, Sarah Hovorka wasn't sure what to do with her life. After obtaining a degree in Anthropology and starting a career in the public sector, Sarah became a mom and homeschooler full-time. When a major health crisis hit and left her disabled, Sarah resolved to pursue a closely-guarded dream... writing. Now an author of picture books, novels, and short stories for all ages, Sarah spends her days writing, reading, homeschooling, and playing video and board games with her husband and three sons in California. You can find out more about her, her books, and follow her blog at www.SarahHovorka.com.
